

Recovery Matters: A one day workshop

Monday 25th August 2014

9.30am – 3.30pm

Western Isles Hospital, Clinical Skills, Stornoway

Do you have an interest in recovery? Would you like to take part in free training, develop your knowledge and learn more? Then Recovery Matters, a one day free workshop hosted by the Scottish Recovery Consortium and the Outer Hebrides ADP could be for you.

The Recovery Matters workshop is an introduction to the ideas and practices involved in placing recovery at the heart of service provision. Participants will explore the contributions service providers and clinicians can make to recovery journeys. Together we will practice an asset based approach and explore the importance of the first five years of recovery when sustaining long term recovery in a community setting. Participants will leave with key evidence, tools and concepts to help them to plant the flag for recovery in their area of work.

Lunch and refreshments will be provided.

Places at this workshop are limited.

To register for this free workshop Control and Click here or paste the following into your browser:

<http://www.scottishrecoveryconsortium.org/index.php?id=148>

For more information contact Anne Marie at:
annemarie@scottishrecoveryconsortium.org

Scottish Recovery Consortium Charity Number: SC041181